February 15, 2011

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

KENT, WA -- WAXIE Sanitary Supply, America's largest independently-owned distributor of sanitary maintenance supplies, is pleased to announce plans to move its Pacific Northwest Inventory Center to Kent, WA in March of 2011. The new 53,000 square foot facility will be larger and more modern and is within close proximity to our current location in Auburn, WA.

For WAXIE, the new location means improved customer service, upgraded infrastructure, enhanced working environment for employees and customers, and room for future growth.

"We are excited about establishing our roots in the Kent community. With easy access to main transportation routes, we will be in a more strategic location to better service the greater Seattle area," said Charles Wax, President and CEO of WAXIE's Enterprises, Inc.

"This new, modern facility allows us to expand and sets us up to serve the community for many years to come," said Clint Hunter, Executive Vice-President Intermountain Region.

The first day of business in the new location is scheduled for March 21, 2011.
